TELECONFERENCE NETWORK OF TEXAS

Responsibilities

Teleconference Network of Texas provides distance learning opportunities in the health sciences in support of the missions of the Health Science Center. The role of Teleconference Network of Texas is to:

1. Provide distance learning services to health care providers on campus and to sites in and beyond Texas via audio teleconferencing and other telecommunication media. This also includes distribution of promotional and program materials.
 2. Solicit financial and other support from extramural sources to support program development and content.
 3. Contribute to and be knowledgeable in current practices and new developments in distance education in order to function as an information and consultation resource.
 4. Work with faculty, staff, students, and other customers to assess current and future needs in distance learning and develop plans to meet the needs.
