Chapter 3: Promotion and Tenure	Effective:
Section 3.4.7 SON Tenure Track Criteria	Revised/Reviewed: September 22, 2017
	Responsibility: Office for Faculty Excellence

The role of the faculty member at UT Health School of Nursing San Antonio, on a tenure track, is to contribute to the school's mission by advancing the science of nursing through scholarship as a team member or independent investigator, as evidenced by a program of scholarship that systematically advances, in two of the following areas: teaching, research, application/ service/ practice, and integration through rigorous inquiry that 1) is significant to the profession, 2) is creative, 3) can be documented, 4) can be replicated or elaborated, and 5) can be peer-reviewed...." (AACN, 1999, p. 3). Advancement is determined by progressive significance and impact of the scholarship, which receives national or international recognition. (All faculty members are expected to demonstrate excellence in teaching and progressive contributions in service.) Examples of evidence that might be used to support the significance and impact of the faculty member's work are listed below. These examples are illustrative only, to document significance and impact. To become tenured, faculty must demonstrate value to University/ School of Nursing mission and emerging National reputation, HOP Chapter 3, Sections 3.6, Policy 3.6.1.

Discovery Scholarship: The scholarship of discovery is inquiry that produces the disciplinary and professional knowledge that is at the very heart of academic pursuits (Boyer, 1990). The scholarship of discovery encompasses research and/or systematic investigation producing the knowledge that is the heart of all disciplines in academic life. The scholarship takes the form of primary empirical research, historical research, theory development and testing, methodological studies (participatory research), and philosophical inquiry and analysis. The scholarship increasingly is interdisciplinary and collaborative in nature, across professional groups and within nursing itself (AACN, 1999).

Teaching Scholarship: This scholarly approach supports the development of educational environments that embrace diverse learning styles, and increasingly, places the focus of education on the learner (Edgerton, 1997). The scholarship of teaching is conducted through application of knowledge of the discipline or specialty area in the teaching-learning process, the development of effective teaching and evaluation methods, program development, learning outcome evaluation, and professional role modeling (adapted from AACN, 1999).

Application/Practice Scholarship: Application/practice scholarship encompasses all aspects of the delivery of nursing service where evidence of direct impact in solving health care problems or in defining the health problems of a community is presented. Competence in practice is the method by which knowledge in the profession is both advanced and applied. Practice roles for faculty in health care delivery systems may include direct caregiver, educator, consultant, and administrator (Brown, et al., 1995; Norbeck & Taylor, 1998; Wright, 1993). Practice is conducted through the application of nursing and related knowledge to the assessment and validation of patient care outcomes, the measurement of quality of life indicators, the development and refinement of practice protocols/strategies, the evaluation of systems of care, and the analysis of innovative health care delivery models.

Section 3.4.7 SON Tenure Track Criteria

Scholarship of Integration: Scholarship of integration is making creative connectedness across disciplines which results in creating comprehensive intellectual patterns and interpretation and synthesis of knowledge thus shaping a more coherent and integrated use of knowledge that builds reciprocal relationships within a broader context of interdisciplinary partnerships with capacity to respond to multi-focal, complex human problems. (AACN, 1999; Wood et al., 1998; Hofmeyer, et al., 2007; Saltmarsh et al., 2009). Integrative scholarship includes multiple interdisciplinary relationships that encompasses reciprocal research, teaching, and community engaged service/practice with organizations at the local regional, national and global levels. Impact of such reciprocal cooperation include project development and programs, publications, presentations, funding, and health policy.
